FINDING SOLUTIONS IN A COMPLEX WORLD

The world is changing at a convoluted and rapid pace. The scale and complexity of the challenges facing the world and our graduates today are unprecedented. A single phenomenon may have massive rippling effects on multiple issues.

To what extent can we predict these complex changes, and how fast can we react to them? In a world that thrives on uncertainty and volatility, the need for leaders with adaptive and critical thinking has become more pressing than ever before.

In this complex world, solutions will come from innovators who can connect the dots between seemingly different disciplines. And that is how SMU designs our scholarships – to nurture undergraduates who will create positive and lasting change as leaders of this dynamic, uncertain world.

With the Global Impact Scholarship Award, Lee Kong Chian Scholars' Programme, SMU Merit Scholarship and Yip Pin Xiu Scholarship, as well as many other scholarships that we offer, we seek out leaders who are able to create change that truly matters in this volatile world.

And this is how we create enduring and positive change – by first impacting a leader, who will in turn change the lives of many others.

Students work closely with professors and industry leaders to solve real world issues in SMU-X courses.

A FLEXIBLE CURRICULUM THAT NURTURES ADAPTABLE LEADERS

At SMU, we design our curriculum and student experience to empower our students to find solutions for complex problems.

Our core curriculum comprises broad-based modules that cut across the wide array of disciplines to broaden a student's intellectual horizon in courses that lay the foundation for critical thinking, communication and reasoning in this fast-paced world. Juxtaposed with an unrivalled flexibility of second majors and double degrees, our students are well-positioned to access a myriad of career opportunities.

SMU-X, our innovative signature initiative, is taught in an interactive learning approach by tightly knit teams of faculty and industry experts. It aims to bring about a mindset shift in our students as they come together from different disciplines to solve real-world problems for our industry partners through active mentorship.

Because of my exposure to economics and accounting, I've come to realise the importance of approaching problems from more than one perspective. I'm now more independent and confident of myself and am able to analyse issues at a much deeper level.

IT IS THE DIVERSE STUDENT EXPERIENCES THAT CREATE MEANINGFUL CONNECTIONS

It is no longer a valid assumption to view the paper chase as a necessary stepping stone to success. Be it a career or a business venture, the need to grasp the value of human connections has never been stronger.

At SMU, whether you are starting an interest group, joining an extracurricular activity, leading a community service project or participating in an international student exchange, we encourage you to connect with your professors, seniors and peers to broaden your perspectives and strengthen your connections.

Growth is best nurtured when we develop ourselves along with others. After all, no man is an island.

Fitting Seamlessly into Exchange Programme

Jun Wei fit right into the University of Pennsylvania's learning environment with close similarities in pedagogy and curriculum. Having spent 6 months in the United States, he learnt to appreciate the spontaneity, open-mindedness and differences in culture, lifestyle and history. The new environment also empowered him to rediscover the joy of doing new things, meeting new people and taking on new challenges.

Significance is success redefined.

At SMU, the good mentorship with professors and industry advisors was crucial to our development. The process of creating Protégé from nothing at all was very rewarding and fulfilling. We enjoyed challenging ourselves and pursuing individual growth in the process of building Protégé, which matches potential mentees and mentors, and is now being licensed to organisations to run their own structured mentoring programmes.
